JUST BEFORE WE BEGIN...

To be free, you need some level of fierceness. From the time of John, the Baptist, the kingdom of God suffers violence, and the fierce takes it by force.

There is a difference between exercising dominion and exercising freedom. Exercising dominion sometimes requires that you be fierce, while exercising freedom requires that you be free. Freedom isn't just a state of being, it's an act.

Many are actually free, but their lack of understanding still keep them in bondage. Some are fierce, but they don't know how to be free. They know how to enforce their deliverance, but they don't know how to live free. The children of Israel got delivered from Egypt, but their minds were still caged by Pharaoh.

After all that God did to deliver them from Pharaoh, they still feared when they heard that Pharaoh was coming after them. They needed a miracle to be delivered; but to be free, they needed more than a miracle, they needed responsibility. Without responsibility, many people will constantly need deliverance.

When they cried in Egypt, God heard and sent Moses to deliver them; when they cried at the Red Sea, God told them to go forward. When God doesn't send a miracle, then He's most likely telling you to "take responsibility".

We need to create a balance; And that's why I've packaged 5 keys that will help you become truly FIERCE AND FREE in this book. As the Lord lives, your life will experience a transformation!

Key Number One

UNDERSTAND YOUR ROOT

King Saul and little David argued over facing Goliath. "Dear David, I know you're passionate, but you're too young, Goliath will crush you in seconds", "Oh king, I killed Lions and bears when they came after my father's sheep, I will also defeat this Goliath because he has come after God's people", "Moreover, the God that helped me kill those deadly animals will also help me defeat Goliath". "Alright, go, your God will be with you".

David brought back Goliath's head after the battle; and Saul, knowing that only certain tribes can accomplish such feats, asked him, "Young man, whose son are you?". The moment David mentioned Jesse - from the tribe of Judah, the argument ceased.

Saul knew that the tribe that David came from was a prevailing tribe, and that no one ever fought against them and prevailed, not even Goliath. Jesus also came from that tribe, the tribe of Judah. The bible says "the Lion of the tribe of Judah has prevailed". If that's the case, then Judah is also our spiritual tribe; and that means we're destined to overcome any storm in life.

You may have been born into an Igbo or Yoruba family, but the day you gave your life to Christ, you were reborn into Judah. Your biological father may have failed all his life, but your spiritual father never failed. If the strategy of your biological father can't get you the breakthrough you need, then the strategy from your spiritual root certainly will. Don't be discouraged by the limitations in your natural lineage, your spiritual lineage has no limitations. Nobody may have ever gotten married in your family, but in your new lineage, God sets the solitary in families. Nobody may have gotten a good job in your family, but in Judah, the righteous shall eat from the fruit of his own doing. Curses may be following everyone around you, but in your new tribe, curses don't work on people.

Therefore, face your fears with this consciousness, just as Jesus faced the cross and David faced Goliath. The track record of your tribe is full of victories; and the God who gave them victory will also give you victory!

Key Number Two

CARRY HIS PRESENCE

To secure victory in any situation, first secure God's presence. Moses understood this principle in Exodus 33:15 when he told God that "if your presence will not go with us, then don't send us...". In Ps 114:3, the bible tells us that when the Red Sea saw the people of Israel coming, it hurried out of their way, and the water of the Jordan River turned away. The Contemporary English Version says, "When the sea looked at God, it ran away, and the Jordan River flowed upstream". If you remember the scenario at the Red Sea, it never divided until Moses introduced the power of God. Certain situations may only remain as long as you've not engaged His presence in those situations. When God arises, enemies scatter.

When they reached Jericho, they were faced with a wall that was impossible to be brought down. But God told Joshua that all they needed to do was to engage His presence again. So Joshua arranged for some priests to carry the ark of God round the wall for 7 days and 7 times on the 7th day, as God instructed. At the 7th time of the 7th day, they all shouted for joy, and the wall fell down flat. That wall was an impossible case, but God's presence must have softened it within the first 6 days. When Jesus was told that Lazarus was dead, He stayed back for some days to secure God's presence. And when He finally went to honour their call, He raised Lazarus back to life. He spent two days securing God's presence, and spent just a few minutes raising Lazarus from the dead. God's presence softens complex situations.

WHEN GOD IS IN YOUR MIDST, THE OPPOSITION MAY BE SEEING YOU, BUT THEY'D BE FEELING GOD. THAT'S WHAT HAPPENED TO THE JORDAN RIVER.

You can't be in God's presence and not know. I was worshipping The Father one day, and suddenly He said to me "My son, you can't be in my presence and not know". I asked why, and He responded saying "Because in my presence there is fullness of joy. And songs are natural traits of joy". After He said those words, it occurred to me that I was not only singing songs I was familiar with, I also sang in tunes I've never heard or sang before. I perceive they were the songs angels sing in heaven.

Out of curiosity I asked Him, "What if I have mind bugging challenges, will they not interfere with your presence?". He responded saying "you can't see the solution to your challenges and still be worried, for in my right hand there are pleasures forevermore". I understood that what I first need to do in the face of challenges is to gain access to His presence, because that's where the solution lies forever.

YOU'D NEVER COME OUT OF ANY CHALLENGE WHEN JOY IS DISPLACED. IT'S NOT ENOUGH TO BE A CHRISTIAN, YOU ALSO NEED TO CARRY HIS PRESENCE. AND JOY IS THE CARRIER OF GOD'S PRESENCE.

God's presence is a stream of income. It solves problems; and if your appearance solves problems, then you have a great possibility of making money. Don't just submit your CV, also submit His presence. Don't just answer interview questions, also give answers that introduces His presence. I remember how I got an ICT job in a company I worked with. When the interviewer asked me what I think they do, I responded saying "God told me you're into vehicle tracking". Out of amazement, the interviewer asked me how he could hear from God. That was the only question I answered to secure an ICT job. You don't know what you're missing by keeping His presence at home.

Key Number Three

FIGHT THE GOOD FIGHT OF FAITH

Don't expect to win a battle you're not ready to fight. The good thing is, our kind of fight guarantees victory. Hebrews 10:36 gives us a formula to secure victory in battle; it says, "You have need of patience, after you've done the will of God, you will receive the promise". In other words, you'd know you've won the battle when you've completed the will. If they can't stop you from completing God's will, then they can't stop God from releasing the promise.

God is not trying to teach you some lessons by what you may be going through. He gave us Christ so we can have life and have it more abundantly. If your present position doesn't feel like "life" to you, then you really need to fight. Don't wait till the day that things will get better; because frankly, as long as Satan is involved, situations only get worse without a fight. And don't even tell me that you're waiting for God's time; because according to scriptures, when it comes to faith, God doesn't consider His timing. The application of your faith can make it God's time.

Jesus is the Author of your faith. He doesn't need to try you with challenges to see if your faith will work. If He authored it, then be sure it works. Trials and tribulations are the devil's evil tricks to steal, kill, and destroy our faith. Don't let him; use your faith against him. Faith is the victory that overcomes the world. Even if the devil defeats you 7 times, grow your faith again and fight the 8th time. Even if he kills you in the fight, faith can bring you back to life. If you do nothing about those recurring challenges, then you're simply telling the devil to ride on. Therefore, keep fighting, because God is waiting for you to win.

Lions don't give up on any fight; actually, they fight till they win. According to scriptures, every Believer carries the nature of a lion; which also means that we are destined to win at all times. 1 Tim 6:12 particularly says that we should fight the good fight of faith, and lay hold on eternal life. The reason why it's termed a "good fight" is because it's a fight where we've been destined to win.

Lions are never afraid of challenges because they know the end from the beginning. Believers should possess the mentality of a victor; you may not be able to stop challenges from coming to you, but you also have all it takes to win. Soldiers occasionally go to war; and if the bible refers to us as soldiers of Christ, then we should expect to fight oppositions occasionally. So when you see challenges coming around you, instead of sitting to weep, fight to win! A soldier that won't face a battle is putting his nation at risk. Also, a Believer that won't confront his oppositions is putting his destiny at risk.

LAY HOLD ON ETERNAL LIFE. ETERNAL LIFE IS A SCRIPTURE-BASED LIFE. IF YOUR LIFE ISN'T REFLECTING THE SCRIPTURES, THEN FIGHT TILL IT BEGINS TO REFLECT.

Key Number Four

FIND YOUR PASSION OR PURPOSE, AND WALK IN THEM

Freedom puts responsibility on us. God didn't free Israel from Egypt for nothing, He freed them for service. What service is your freedom rendering to humanity? Don't tell me you're working with a company, is your presence there serving the purpose of God? It's okay to find a job, but also find the purpose for which God set you free.

You're not just freed to eat burger and have coldstone, you're freed to free others. I don't just mean "getting people saved", I mean giving people life. There are many people who are saved, yet they have no life. I know great writers today who felt empty until I was privileged to meet them.

FINDING PURPOSE...

To find purpose, look out for those unusual occurrences. Before God called Moses, He first created an unusual occurrence. He made His angels to start a fire in the midst of the bush, but didn't allow the fire to consume the bush.

Other people who passed before Moses also saw that unusual occurrence, but they didn't turn to see why it happened like that. But here was Moses, he told them that he had to turn to see why the bush was not consumed by the fire. And the moment he turned, God called him.

Don't tell me that God has not shown you your purpose or that God has not called you into an assignment; because just like Moses, He has been creating unusual occurrences just to see if you will turn. The bible says "When God saw that Moses turned, He called Moses". God will always call those who turn to fix unusual situations. God called Moses when he turned; now imagine if he never turned. He'd probably miss the call.

People who desire to find purpose don't ignore situations, especially the ones that touches their heart. God may just be by the corner, waiting for you to turn. After all, the more problems you fix, the more useful you become.

ALRIGHT, LET'S BE A LITTLE MORE PRACTICAL. LET ME SHOW YOU HOW TO FIND YOUR PURPOSE

Finding life purpose is not easy. In fact, it is one of the most difficult things to do. It would require grace from God, because it does not have a universal formula, and it takes time to find. Finding life purpose is more like a personal journey that one has to undertake; and this is why many individuals never find their life purpose. I'd be sharing a few practical tips with you, and I believe they would help you in the journey to finding your purpose.

1. Do not expect instant result:

Finding life purpose takes time, so do not expect to find it soon. It is a journey where you do not have room to complain about the distance. Rather, you should enjoy every step of the way. I was guilty of murmuring and complaining because I did not like the way life was going for me. But the murmuring did not take me anywhere until I applied the principle of patience. Even when I prayed ceaselessly to God about it, all He told me was to be patient and build up my faith.

2. Identify your strengths or talents:

Your life purpose is related to your talent or personal strengths. For instance, if you are strong in learning, it is likely that your life purpose is related to learning or teaching.

Your life purpose is related to your talent or personal strengths. For instance, if you are strong in learning, it is likely that your life purpose is related to learning. I learn anything easily; over time, I've discovered that the way I assimilate knowledge is always different from other people. We may read the same book, but the feedbacks would be far different. You would even begin to wonder if we read the same book. Also, each time I caught a new insight, I would rush to a nearby friend to tell them about it. I just didn't know how to withhold knowledge inside me. I would always look for who to share what I've learnt with. I'd sometimes imagine myself on a stage – teaching people the things that I know.

You may have had experiences like mine too; but maybe in a different scenario. Yours could be singing; perhaps you're always outstanding during a choir practice. Or maybe you imagine yourself singing to a group of people.

To discover purpose, you must first discover your talents. Talent is what you have, while purpose is what to do with what you have. Purpose is more like an assignment that has to be written, while talent is the pen you'd need to write the assignment. But it's quite unfortunate that many people use their talents to do things that are not assigned to them.

3. Identify your passions:

Your passions are things you do because of love and not because of external reward such as money or recognition. I love to impact knowledge on people. On many occasions, I have had to reject my pay check after delivering a motivational talk. This is not because I do not need the money, but that being able to speak to those people paid me more than the content of my pay check. Your passions would naturally give you fulfillment even if there is physically nothing to show for it.

4. Identify your causes or interests:

Identify the things that matter to you. Is there a condition in the world that makes you feel discontent? Is there a condition that makes you feel the urge to do something about it? For instance, I do not like it when students fail. I always feel failure amongst students is something that can be completely eradicated.

5. Find the intersection between your strengths, passions, and interests:

If you have been able to identify your strengths, passions, and causes, then you can find the intersection between them:

- First, pick an interest from your list of interests.
- From your list of strengths, pick those that can help you improve the situation in the interest.
- From the strengths you pick, find the ones you can work on with enthusiasm.

Teaching is one of my strengths. I can talk and write all day without much stress. And since I despise failure among students, then I can educate myself on effective communication and also grab as much knowledge as I can.

Because I'd simply use the teaching strength to change the "student failure" situation.

You can continue this exercise until you find a cause or interest that has a strong intersection with your strengths and passions. At the end of the exercise, you will find a cause you deeply care about for which you can effectively do something with enthusiasm. What you find would be a clear sign of your purpose.

I also like to sing and cook. I've had to make soup for a client's party even when I was physically sick. And that's because no weakness can outshine your strengths from producing. There are days when I'd prefer to walk through a distance that would require a cab, not because I couldn't afford the fare, but because I just wanted to sing. So I'd sing on the road till I reach my destination. I'd like to transform the music industry; I'd also love to be a unique chef, but I'm more interested in stopping the failure among students. And that's why I'd choose to develop my teaching strength over my singing and cooking strengths.

Key Number Five

FOCUS

Anything you focus on will expand. Small things naturally grow big with focus. It's not money that you need to grow a small business, it's focus. Mathematics may be difficult, but focus will make it easy. If you want to see changes in your marriage, then build your focus around it. Focus has power to transform anything, and nothing can resist its transformative effect. Just any man can be transformed if you focus on his transformation.

BUT WHAT IS FOCUS?

Focus is a definite commitment to a cause. And that's why you can't be truly committed to anything without a clear definition.

Focus is not just about committing yourself to something, it's about committing yourself to something with a clear definition. When I started writing, I told God that I don't want to write like every other writer, that I want to write with a clear difference. I told him I want my write-ups to flow with angelic ecstasy. With that in mind, each time I write something that feels ordinary, I'd quickly delete it. There are many beautiful write-ups that I've had to delete, only because I didn't feel the way I defined for my write-ups.

Some months after I defined my focus, I started receiving feedbacks from readers. A lady said "Emeka, anytime I read your write-ups, it's always like an angel is talking to me". Another person said "Anslem, if you tell me that it is you that is writing these messages, I'd slap you. Because only a spirit can write like this". I really laughed when I heard them, but they were clear pointers that what I focused on was expanding. As at that time, the maximum number of "Likes" I received on my write-ups was 10; but recently, it has crossed 150. And the feedback has been the same from everyone.

BUT ANSLEM, I'VE BUILT MY FOCUS AROUND THIS THINGS ALL THESE YEARS, BUT I'VE NOT EXPERIENCED A CHANGE...

If that's the case for you, then what you've built all those years may not really be focus.

Focus has some virtues that works with it; let me explain a few of them to you:

- FOCUS BEGINS WITH A DEFINITION

We defined focus as definite commitment to a cause. The phrase "definite commitment" simply means "defined commitment". In other words, you don't just commit yourself to a cause, you first define your commitment.

Focus without definition will often lead to confusion. And when a man is confused, it simply means he has lost focus. If you want to start a business, start by defining what you hope to achieve. Then build your focus around what you've defined.

I've heard people say things like "I'd do everything in my power to make this work". I don't do everything in my power to make things work, I do everything I have defined in order to make things work. I've discovered that people who determine to do everything in their power to pursue a cause usually abandon the cause. And that's because, oftentimes, everything in our power is usually not enough to make certain things work. We need to do things beyond our power. God understood this principle when He said we should "trust in the Lord with all our heart, and lean not on our own understanding". Ephesians 6:10 says "Finally, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of His might...". The word "finally" was used to signify that our definition has to be totally dependent on God. No man can scale through the diverse challenges of this world in his strength; he needs a higher power to overcome. If your definition has no connection with God, then you will soon lose focus.

Imagine if I did not define my style of writing, I'd probably be writing anything I like today. People should not just do what they like, but what they've defined. If you focus on a thing only because you like it, then what will happen when you no longer like it? Many people have stopped going to church because the "like" is no longer there. Ninety percent of salary earners want to change their job only because they no longer "like" their job. Divorce is becoming a daily routine only because the couple no longer "like" each other. Students will prefer to sit at home and watch movies instead of going to school, only because they no longer "like" school. Isn't this "like" perspective the beginning of man's problem?

If your only reason for committing yourself to a cause is because you like it, then you'd probably abandon that cause. Liking a cause is not enough, you need to consciously define the level of commitment you'd give to it.

I like writing, but I've also defined the level of commitment I give to it. And that's because I don't want it to affect any other aspect of my life. I remember how my boss told me that I was not focused in the office; and that's because I was always thinking of what to write, even while I'm in the office. Some people will say it was passion that was driving me, but my boss was right; I lacked focus, I lacked definition. If I had a proper definition, then my productivity in the office would not have been affected.

So that's it! Focus begins with defining your commitment, and consciously submitting to what you've defined. Definition puts you on check; so that when situations try to pull you out, you'd know how to trace your way back. A student who has defined his commitment to always have an Upper Credit in all courses will naturally sit up anytime he gets a grade lower than an Upper Credit. But imagine a student who doesn't have a defined commitment? He'd probably accept any grade, and do nothing about improving. And students like that easily get confused and eventually lose focus.

The same thing applies to businesses. And that's why most organizations set annual targets for themselves. Having a defined commitment for your business will help you rate your income. For instance, I planned to write 12 books in the month of March 2017; but I ended up writing 9. Of course, I should be excited, but I didn't reach my goal. On the other hand, if I didn't define my commitment to write 12 books, I probably would not have written more than 2 books in that month. Definition has a way of stretching your potentials; and that's why I earlier mentioned that you should not define your commitment based on your strength, but based on the power of God. I really love to write, but all I could write in the month of February 2017 was 2 books, without a definition. But definition increased it to 9. You'd be amazed at how much you can achieve by defining your commitment to any cause.

I heard of a man who committed himself to washing his wife's car. He did that anytime the car was due for washing. And the most amazing thing is that even when his wife offends him, he'd still wash the car and personally hand over the keys to her. "Darling, I've washed your car, here's your key" accompanied with a peck on the cheek. Even if the wife was possessed by a demon, she'd quickly apologize for her wrong. Our definitions overpower our weaknesses and enables us to do what needs to be done. Definition is what will make you pay your child's school fees even after you lost your job.

- FOCUS REQUIRES KNOWLEDGE

You can't claim you have focus on something and you don't have details about that thing. For instance, if you have focus on your family, you'd have vital details about them. You'd know your wife's best color, best food, best hairstyle, best gift, best dress, birthday, salary, colleagues, friends; you'd know about her job, the role she plays, and possibly how she plays it. You'd have details about your child's schooling; both academic and financial status. You'd know the numerous talents of your children, and even help them to enhance their gifts. You just need to understand how they operate; parents who do not know what to do for their children have an unstable focus. Because with focus, you would always know what to do per time.

If it ever comes to a time when you don't know what to do to perform your official duty, then your focus is probably not on the job. Men of focus are always one step ahead; they update themselves regularly, and attack the things that may become a threat to their job in the future. And this is why many people easily get tired of the same job they enjoyed when they began. They give excuses like; "my boss nags at me, I no longer feel the excitement, the pay is no longer encouraging, and so on". What you focus on only expands; and you can't possibly get tired of positive expansions.

When you begin to see reasons why your job is no longer good for you, then you've drifted your focus to something else. Research has it that employees perform better during their first months in an organization. And that's because they put all their focus on the job during that period, and divide their focus after a while. If only they know that complete focus is the key to excellence.

Don't tell me "business is not moving", because it's actually your focus that is not showing. Progress naturally accompanies focus. Even Jesus referred to this principle in Matt 6:22 when He said "the light of the body is the eye: if your eyes be single, your whole body will be full of light". In other words, if you will dare to focus, you can't experience downtimes; either in your business or in any other aspect of your life. Just as the eye is the light of the body, focus is the light of destiny. Without the eyes, the body will be full of darkness; and without focus, destiny can never be reached.

A man who always have details about his engagements is a man of focus. He'd always know what to do to escape any situation. The essence of focus is to ensure that growth is guaranteed. But focus without knowledge won't lead to growth. Though we have said that "what you focus on will expand", it is a "knowledge-rooted" focus that causes things to expand. People who easily lose their focus are people whose focus is not knowledge-motivated.

- FOCUS IS SUSTAINED BY A VISION

Have a vision for growth. It's not enough to define your commitment and have enough knowledge of the things you focus on; you also need to have a vision for progress. Knowledge is progressive, but it is vision that creates the destination. Knowledge without a vision will only keep you around the corner. Knowledge gets you ready to go, vision shows you where to go.

Vision is about seeing something better than what you have now, and about seeing a place better than where you are now. Your wife may be earning a great income now, but if you can't see her making even greater income, then check your focus. Focus is visionary in nature; even though the present may be bright, it always looks forward to the future.

People who desire to change their job only because their salary is small do not have a focus. No amount of salary will ever be enough for man. Don't change your job because you need a salary increase, but because your vision is being ceased. Also, don't stay on a job only because the salary is good, but because the vision you see is achievable. I heard the story of a man who got a job employment in a bank as a security officer. Though he started as a security officer, but he looked forward to becoming an accountant in the same bank. Amazingly, it wasn't long before he became the chief accountant in the bank.

Vision does not have a final destination; because every destination is turned into the beginning. Vision says "the sky is the limit", but when it gets to the sky, it says "the sky is the beginning". With vision, no position is too small to start from; actually, vision likes to start small.

- FOCUS REFLECTS THROUGH PERSEVERANCE

There is no vision that is impossible to attain. However, pursuing a great vision requires great perseverance.

Perseverance means to continue in a course of action without regard to discouragement, opposition or previous failure. Matt 24:13 says "he that endure till the end shall be saved". Persevering towards the fulfillment of a vision means to endure all the hardness and difficulties until you see the manifestation of the vision. Jesus, who for the joy that was set before Him, endured the cross and despised the shame. That's the example we should follow. If you ever abort a vision because of the difficulties on the way, then you don't have a focus.

A man with true focus will never abort a vision; he would press towards the vision until he sees the manifestation. Aborting a vision is like aborting a baby; and the pain of abortion is far more tormenting than the pain of perseverance. People who abort their babies live to regret it; but people who persevere unto delivery live to celebrate their victory. The vision in your heart is like the baby in the womb; you need to carry the vision like a woman carries the baby for months before delivery. Of course, the discomfort and pain will come, but the delivery of the vision will also come, only if you would persevere.
